Will Dairying Pay?

We often hear farmers say that dairying does not pay on the farm. It is true that in many cases it does not, but in many instances it does. The first part of the week, Mr. Wm. Korber, who lives south of Farmington, came into the Farm Bureau office and haid down two cream checks made out by the Schramm Creamery, for $48.-55. Mr. Korber said that this money was for two weeks' butter fat from six cows. Three of these cows are two-year-old heifers. During the two weeks that this cream was sold, Mr. Korber churned a gallon of cream for the family use. This is a pretty good record, considering the fact that pas-tures were injured during the summer by the dry weather.

THE RULING PASSION

Though admittedly facing the possible failure of all their ambitious plans of conquest, the Germans still exhibit their ruling passion and characteristic predatory instinct. They can't see how they can possibly give up Antwerp and declare that they must keep their grip on it whatever happens. According to the Cologue Gazett. The port of Antwerp is "indispensable" to Germany and its less would be "an irreparable blow." It would appear that even at the outset the Germans coveted the Belgian coast more that any other territory that they planned to stori, and his calls to mired when some of us have long suspected—the the Germans sweeped down on Bels. ole failure of all their ambitious plans the Germans swooped down on Bel-gium not merely because it offered a short road into France but because it e conquest of the little country was one of their prime objects in going into
